

Norwich Bulletin
and Gazette
123 YEARS OLD
Published daily except on Sundays and holidays.
Subscription price: $1.00 a week; $5.00 a month; $10.00 a quarter; $35.00 a year in advance.
Single copies 5 cents.
Telephone Office 414.
Advertising Office 414.
Norwich, Friday, Oct. 3, 1919

CIRCULATION
WEEK ENDING SEPT. 27, 1919
10,309

REPUBLICAN TOWN TICKET.
Selectmen.
CAMPBELL K. RILEY.
CHARLES E. WOODWARD.
Frank H. Woodworth.
ALBIE L. HALE.
Board of Relief.
FRED G. PROFFER.
JAMES C. WATKINS.
Town Clerk and Treasurer.
CHARLES S. HOLBROOK.
Tax Collector.
THOMAS A. ROBINSON.
Register of Voters.
TYLER D. CUTY.
Auditor.
DANIEL F. M'NEILL.
Agents of Towns Deposit Fund.
WILLIAM H. ALLEN.
FRANK L. WOODWARD.
LEONARD O. SMITH.
Town School Board.
R. E. BISHOP.
ROBERT M'NEILL.
CHARLES A. SEXTON.
Committees.
JOHN REEVES.
GEORGE W. BOISE.
GUSTAV H. M'NEILL.
FRED D'ARR.

UNDERSTAND VOTING MACHINES.
New voters to the number of 245 were added last month to the list of those entitled to participate in town elections. Of that number it is to be presumed that there are some who are fully acquainted with voting machines in other cities if not here, but inasmuch as a large proportion of the number never voted before it is probable that they are not posted as to how they should be in the use of the machines, simple though the operation is.
For the purpose of giving these new voters, as well as any others who may feel the need of renewed instructions, the information they desire and permit them to get acquainted with the machines, the registrars of voters are demonstrating the operation of the machines in the main corridor of the city hall each afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.
This gives each and everyone full opportunity to examine, witness the operation or to personally operate the machine just the same as they will be required to do on election day, next Monday, and it is to be appreciated that it is the wise move on the part of the town to make such an opportunity to get acquainted with the simple, accurate and speedy machine in voting. The logical time for getting the needed instructions is before election day when there is plenty of time and less likelihood of getting instructions confused. It is a duty that each new voter owes himself.

ROYAL VISITORS.
This country has done no entertaining in behalf of ruling sovereigns and but for the war it would not be doing such now, but there will nevertheless be a royal visit, as the king and queen of Belgium are expected to be welcomed to King Albert and Queen Elisabeth of Belgium during their stay in this country.
Even though this country hasn't much use for monarchs it cannot fail to recognize the part that King Albert played in the recent war. Inasmuch as his mother was a Hohenzollern and he had received his education in Germany, there were reasons why he might have disregarded the attitude that Germany took toward his country. But such was not the case. He gave full consideration to the scrap of paper that he understood the meaning of the disregard of Belgium's neutrality that Germany had sworn to maintain and he acted accordingly. The result was that Belgium suffered bravely but the rights of his country were upheld. King Albert didn't listen to the possibility of preventing all the havoc that Germany wrought by sacrificing the independence of his country. On the other hand he resented it with all the life of a true patriot, even to getting into the trenches with his men, taking great chances when a premium was placed upon his head and undergoing the hardships along with his troops.
It will never be forgotten how he declared, when urged not to expose himself on that great day from Antwerp, "My skin is of no more value than yours. My place is in the firing line!" Such characterization his part in the history of his country throughout the war and there is no one but what must admire the wonderful example he set to his people and the service that was rendered to the world in the destruction that Belgium played before the invading German armies.

VONDERGOLZ'S ARMY.
It is nearly a year since the armistice was signed, but regardless of that and the fact that Germany has signed the treaty of peace, and been ordered to reduce her army to a certain number, there still remain in the Baltic provinces, the forces raised and equipped by General von der Goltz, who went, following the armistice and where they have stayed ever since.

subject is explained in several different ways, the retention of that force was ordered by the allies four months ago. Although it had been declared that the order had been complied with the fact is that the army is still there and it is only this week that it has been announced from Berlin that von der Goltz has been recalled.
But the German Government has not done this because of the order last June, but because the allies, having decided that action could not be secured in any other way, ordered the reestablishment of the blockade of German ports. This means that the large amount of foodstuffs for which Germany had contracted among the allies and even paid its money is to be held up, and there is no greater need for anything in Germany today than for food. But Germany is without its gold and not getting its food. The embargo will be released when it carries out directions and recalls the German forces that are causing as much trouble among the allies as did the bolshevik, and Germany might as well realize that it must comply in this respect as it has in others.

DEALING OUT JUSTICE.

In many of the instances where people of certain conviction have taken the responsibility for administering punishment for crime into their own hands and committed murder without establishing the facts or proving the accused guilty, the claim has been put forth that such was the result of the slow action of courts. That the court did not give sentences to Negroes sufficiently severe to make an example of them was given as one of the reasons for the outbreak in Omaha, but whether it is increase of race prejudice in other sections, it cannot be claimed that such is the trouble with justice in New Jersey.
In that state where a colored man, caught after a long chase through a swamp, was charged with the assault, the advisability of early court action was recognized and it was only a half hour after his presentation that he was adjudged guilty on the evidence presented and sentenced to 30 to 30 years of hard labor, with the court notifying the accused while giving his testimony that he was in a court where he need not hesitate to tell the truth, white and black men were treated alike.

There can be little question but what there is good reason why such cases should get the earliest possible court attention instead of being subjected to delays which few can understand. Such would serve to keep down the feeling but it must also be realized that the lynching spirit bids fair to continue unless understood that the black man must be treated with the same degree of fairness as a white man, and public sentiment is invited upon it being done.

OUR OWN LANGUAGE.

When there are sections of the country where it is found that there is an insistence that the school children be taught in the German language, regardless of the fact that it is against the law of the state to give instruction in schools in any other than the English language, there is only one thing to do, and that is for the authorities to enforce the law, prosecute those who are responsible for its violation and insist that the law be obeyed.
The fact of the matter is that instruction in all the elementary schools of this country should be conducted in the English language. There is nothing to be gained by such instruction of Americanization. It would undoubtedly be surprising to learn the large number of school children in this country who are getting their education in the English language, but no more attention than the average pupil in the country does to some foreign language. Surprising as it may seem, English is about as little used in some sections of the country as it is in foreign lands.
There can be no question but what patriotic sentiment should oppose the use of other than the English language in our schools but, unfortunately, we have found out that frequently doesn't exist where it is greatly needed. If after getting an education in the English language it is desired to learn other languages there can be no objection but in the common schools of the country the states should insist upon a thorough schooling in English and where the law demands it they should be carefully enforced.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Even if there are free fights, there are those who invariably pay pretty well for them.
Japan wants China to talk over Shantung. What China believes it should do is to hang it over.
Organizer Fitzpatrick refers to $60 a day as a pittance, and of course everybody will agree with him.
None of the strike centers has shown much disorder and utter disregard for law as did Omaha's citizens.
The man on the corner says: Talking about evils that should be abated doesn't always mean that they will be.

Those being arrested in Omaha for participating in the rioting are probably going their first bit of serious thinking.
Omaha's disgraceful conduct was bad enough, but the participants brazenly bragging about the part they took in it.
These may be times that try men's souls, but these are also times when thoughts of a states deal are rudely knocked out.
The high cost of talking is broken in New York where an eight per cent. addition in telephone rates has just gone into effect.
A Baltimore woman has willed $10 a month to a dog. That ought to keep off any such experience as Mother Hubbard's dog.

After the Washington, Chicago and Omaha affairs, it will not do for the northern cities to say much about southern lawlessness.
With the price of linen collars advancing no one need be surprised if two are soon required to make the circle that one has been doing.
Cincinnati seems to have given Chicago and its supporters a surprise party that was not surmised, but of course the column is wrong yet.

OVER THE ROAST

"It's just awful about the Tarragon case," said the lady in the dotted foulard dress as her husband carved the roast. "But what could they expect when they quarreled and fought all the time, and every one knew they did?"
"I'm sure it agreed the gentlemen with the carving knife, taking a fresh hitch on the implement. 'Well, divorce is better than constant rows.'"
"But there simply was no sense in such bickering. Dolly Tarragon should have used more tact."
"And Jim Tarragon is terribly headstrong and opinionated. He might have slowly up a rifle," added the man of the house.
"I'm certainly thankful that there's nothing resembling their case in our family," pursued the lady in the dotted foulard. "Of course, we don't echo each other, but each of us respects the other's opinions. I think we get along beautifully. Don't you?"
"Of course we do," said the gentleman with the carving knife. "There is no use having a home without peace. I couldn't stand it otherwise. Just use discretion and common sense and learn to give in."

"Of course every one has to give in," said his wife. "But I don't like to have you speak as though you were the one who had all to do. Dinsmore, I have a good deal of giving in to do myself. I never make any fuss about it because it isn't my way to expect credit for what I do. But there isn't a living woman who doesn't have to adapt herself and give her husband his way."
"Maybe you think the men don't have to," returned her husband. "After a man has been married a short time he knows where he gets off. There isn't a particle of use trying to argue with a woman and the quicker he finds it out the better. Anastasia, I never noticed that you had a very hard time of it. You seem to be tolerably happy and to get along all right."
"That's just what I was saying," declared his wife briskly. "It's because I use tact and give in. Now, if Dolly Tarragon had."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."
"That's just what I was saying," declared his wife briskly. "It's because I use tact and give in. Now, if Dolly Tarragon had."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"Why, Dinsmore!" reproved the lady in the dotted foulard dress as her husband carved the roast. "But what could they expect when they quarreled and fought all the time, and every one knew they did?"
"I'm sure it agreed the gentlemen with the carving knife, taking a fresh hitch on the implement. 'Well, divorce is better than constant rows.'"
"But there simply was no sense in such bickering. Dolly Tarragon should have used more tact."
"And Jim Tarragon is terribly headstrong and opinionated. He might have slowly up a rifle," added the man of the house.
"I'm certainly thankful that there's nothing resembling their case in our family," pursued the lady in the dotted foulard. "Of course, we don't echo each other, but each of us respects the other's opinions. I think we get along beautifully. Don't you?"
"Of course we do," said the gentleman with the carving knife. "There is no use having a home without peace. I couldn't stand it otherwise. Just use discretion and common sense and learn to give in."

"Of course every one has to give in," said his wife. "But I don't like to have you speak as though you were the one who had all to do. Dinsmore, I have a good deal of giving in to do myself. I never make any fuss about it because it isn't my way to expect credit for what I do. But there isn't a living woman who doesn't have to adapt herself and give her husband his way."
"Maybe you think the men don't have to," returned her husband. "After a man has been married a short time he knows where he gets off. There isn't a particle of use trying to argue with a woman and the quicker he finds it out the better. Anastasia, I never noticed that you had a very hard time of it. You seem to be tolerably happy and to get along all right."
"That's just what I was saying," declared his wife briskly. "It's because I use tact and give in. Now, if Dolly Tarragon had."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

"I hope," said the gentleman with the carving knife, "you are not comparing me with Tarragon."

AUDITORIUM
THREE NIGHTS AND TWO MATINEES
STARTING SUNDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 5th
Now in Pictures
THE WORLD'S GREATEST STORY PHOTO-PLAY
FROM THE MOST POPULAR AMERICAN NOVEL
THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS
By
HAROLD BELL WRIGHT
THE SUCCESS OF THE SEASON IN 10 REELS
MATINEES MONDAY AND TUESDAY—PRICES 25c, CHILDREN 15c.
NIGHTS, 25c, 35c, 50c—MATINEE AT 2:30—NIGHT 8 O'CLOCK
PLUS WAR TAX

BREED THEATRE
Today and Saturday
The Foremost Actress on the Eng-
High-Speaking Stage
ELLEN TERRY
In Her Screen Drama, Portraying
the Greatest of the World's Great Emotions, Mother Love, Entitled
HER GREATEST PERFORMANCE
MADGE KENNEDY IN
"LEAVE IT TO SUSAN"
PATHE NEWS

DAVIS THEATRE
TUESDAY NIGHT
OCTOBER 7th
WINCHELL SMITH AND JOHN GOLDEN PRESENT
THE GREATEST OF LAUGHING HITS
TURBID TO THE RIGHT!
CAST OF ORIGINAL FAVORITES WHO HAVE APPEARED MORE THAN 1,000 TIMES
The Comedy That Will Live Forever
ORIGINAL NEW YORK PRODUCTION
EXACTLY AS PRESENTED AT THE GAIETY THEATRE FOR A SOLID YEAR
THE ONLY COMPANY ON TOUR
SEAT SALE TODAY—PRICES 50c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00
WAR TAX EXTRA

AUDITORIUM
TWO DAYS—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
HAROLD BELL WRIGHT'S
Clare's production
The Eyes of the World
A LOVE TRAIL FROM BOSTON TO CALIFORNIA
19 REELS OF LOVE, ADVENTURE, COMEDY, PATHOS AND DARING INTRIGUE
Prices, Matinee 25c; Evenings 25, 35, 50c, War Tax Extra bonds of force but united by ties of mutual trust and kindness.

"In the principal square of Omsk stands the Church of St. Nicholas in which hangs a banner reputed to have been that of Yermak, a Cossack bandit of the Volga, who turned over the vast domain of Siberia to Ivan the Terrible in order to procure his own restoration to Moscow court favor.
"Thus that tyrannical and talented Tsar came into possession of the extensive territory which had been wrested from the Mongolians by Russians who had fled from the mad vagaries of Ivan the same Ivan, assembled the first Russian national assembly, killed his son in a fit of anger, and took the hood of the strictest monastic order just before the end of a dissolute personal and brilliant political life.
"Founded only about 200 years ago, Omsk now a city approximating the size of Birmingham, Ala., or Paterson, N. J. It is neither well built nor industrially important. Its nearest neighbors along the Trans-Siberian railway, running from Moscow to Vladivostok, a 5,385 mile journey, taking thirteen days, formerly made in an express train equipped with bath rooms, dispensary and library.
"Amid the ruins of an old fort, behind the museum of the Imperial Russian Geographical Society, stood, until a few years ago, the house in which the famous Russian novelist, Fedor Dostoevsky, spent his four years of imprisonment ten years before our Civil War.
"Here Dostoevsky wrote his Siberian novel, 'Recollections of a Dead House,' translated into English under the title 'The Idiot' and 'The Possessed.' The latter is the Siberian exile. Indeed his subjects and characters have been compared to those of Dickens, though the contrast is far more grim. Out of his experience with criminals while at Omsk also came his 'Crime and Punishment,' which, with semi-prophetic vision, he pictured a future Russian people freed from descendants of many of the colonists sent to Siberia by the government, and also of many political exiles, are of good Russian stock.

STORIES OF THE WAR
Seven Graves Not Located.
(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
Of the 150 American aviators who met death in aerial combat there are only seven whose graves have not been located. The search for the burial places of the heroes of the air is being conducted by an army officer and a representative of the American Red Cross, and thousands of kilometers have been covered in France and Germany.
The 143 graves have been decorated according to the rules in force in the American expeditionary force and photographs have been sent to the relatives of the dead. The seven remaining graves are being sought with particular care.

OTHER VIEW POINTS
The report of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce which has been investigating the high cost of living shows intelligent and painstaking work and it covers thoroughly the limited ground which the time and resources of the committee allowed. The committee is able to arrive at definite conclusions. Among them were these: that the cost of living in Waterbury is not for most articles any higher than in other cities.

REMEMBER
Big Bubble Dance
T. A. B. HALL
JOLLY TWO
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3
MUSIC BY
ROWLAND'S JAZZ BAND

Kimball's Textile Shop
OFFERS A SPECIAL SALE OF Imported Clothes
for Infants and Small Children
Hand sewing was once an unchallenged ruler. Then machine sewing came and conquered. But like many another conqueror, it didn't stay. It was followed by the sewing machine, most fragile thing in its kingdom—Baby Clothes. Our shop affords an opportunity to select exquisite things for the little princes and princesses of America.
MEETING THE REQUIREMENTS OF WOMEN WHO USUALLY SHOP IN THE METROPOLIS
Here, for instance are a few items:
Infants' Long Dresses, $2.50 to $4.00.
Petite's to match, $1.50 to $3.00.
Short Dresses—$1 to four years, $2.50 to $4.50.
Nightgowns, $2.25.

But These Are Only Hints—Seeing With One's Eyes Is Far More Satisfactory
342 WASHINGTON STREET
N. E. Corner of Main and Washington Streets
NORWICH, CONN.

of the state, that coal and gas are for some reasons notably higher; that the high cost of living in Waterbury and Connecticut is the same, practically as conditions in all of New England, where prices are higher than they are for instance, in the Middle West; that a part of the reason for this is due to the expensive way of selling and buying.
The latter item is one which cannot be remedied by individual or sporadic effort. It involves a change in the system of marketing. People who order by telephone and require delivery by vehicle set the price for those who don't, or at least those who are willing to walk and carry a few and not enough to relieve the situation. The necessity of providing the order and carry equipment to satisfy the means of the eager-going customer, in order to reduce the condition there must be an organization, education, and union effort.—Waterbury American.

Smith's Pharmacy, Inc.
THIS WEEK
TWO—SPECIALS—TWO NUMBER ONE
Parsons' Household Ammonia
Makes clothes SNOWY WHITE, without rubbing or the slightest injury. Will NOT irritate the skin.
SPECIAL PRICE 13c a Bottle, 2 for 25c

NUMBER TWO
The celebrated VICTOR all METAL HOT WATER BOTTLE. CANNOT leak and is fully warranted.
SPECIAL PRICE $1.89

MEN—Just a little longer to get in on the 30 day FREE trial of the AUTOSTROP SAFETY RAZOR. THE ONLY SAFETY RAZOR that STROPS itself without removing the blade. Adjustable to ALL beards.

LADIES—You must see our extensive line of the justly famous ROGER & GALLET'S PERFUMES, TOILET WATERS and SOAPS.

OUR PATRONS will find our SPECIAL BLEND COFFEE unsurpassed in quality at any price. OUR PRICE still the SAME
45c the Pound
Compare it with any 60c blend.

Smith's Pharmacy, Inc.
205 MAIN STREET
FRANKLIN SQUARE
NORWICH, CONN.

Children Ory
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA